

Opus Care Induction & NDIS Foundations

Core orientation for support workers

Suggested training type: Read + mini quiz Suggested pass mark: 80% Review/validity: 12 months recommended review cycle

Learning objectives

- Understand Opus Care's person-centred approach and the worker's role.
- Recognise the purpose of the NDIS, choice and control, and the NDIS Commission.
- Know when to ask for guidance rather than acting outside role, training or competence.
- Understand the importance of induction, supervision and ongoing learning.

1. What good support looks like

Good disability support is built around the person's goals, preferences, routines, identity, communication style and right to make choices. The worker's job is not to take over a person's life. It is to provide the agreed support safely, respectfully and in a way that increases choice, control and independence where possible.

2. Your role as an Opus Care worker

- Read and follow the participant's current support information, agreed service arrangements and relevant Opus Care procedures.
- Work only within your role, training, competence and authorised support tasks.
- Ask a supervisor when instructions are unclear, a person's needs have changed, or a task requires skills you have not been trained to perform.
- Record relevant support information accurately and promptly using the approved CRM or documentation process.
- Raise safety concerns, incidents and complaints promptly - do not hide, minimise or delay them.

3. NDIS worker learning

The NDIS Commission provides a free Worker Orientation Module, 'Quality, Safety and You', plus New Worker NDIS Induction modules, Supporting Effective Communication and Supporting Safe and Enjoyable Meals. Opus Care should require workers to complete the official Worker Orientation module and upload the official certificate to the staff compliance record.

4. Induction is more than online training

The Commission's workforce guidance emphasises capability, supervision, organisational policies and orientation to the actual participant and role. Online learning builds knowledge; safe practice also depends on supervised application, feedback and role-specific competence.

5. Stop and escalate

Stop the task and seek guidance if there is immediate danger, a serious change in the participant's health or behaviour, an unfamiliar high-risk task, a conflict between instructions and safety, or uncertainty about consent, restrictive practice, medication, manual handling or any other specialised support.

Knowledge Check

Choose the best answer for each question. Suggested pass mark: 80%. This quiz checks understanding of the module; it does not replace supervised practical competency where that is required.

1. What is the best description of person-centred support?
 - A. Doing everything for the participant
 - B. Following the worker's preferred routine
 - C. Providing agreed support around the person's goals, choices and preferences
 - D. Avoiding all risk

2. What should a worker do if asked to perform a task they are not trained or competent to do?
 - A. Try it once
 - B. Ask another participant
 - C. Stop and seek supervisor guidance
 - D. Ignore the request without reporting it

3. Which official course should be part of worker onboarding?
 - A. NDIS Worker Orientation: Quality, Safety and You
 - B. A random social media video
 - C. A payroll tutorial
 - D. A marketing course

4. Why is supervision still important after online learning?
 - A. Online learning replaces practice
 - B. Workers need support to apply knowledge safely in real situations
 - C. Only managers need supervision
 - D. It is only for poor performers

5. When should an incident or safety concern be raised?
 - A. Only at the end of the month
 - B. Promptly through the approved process
 - C. Only if a participant complains
 - D. Never if no injury occurred

Manager answer key is included in the accompanying quiz JSON file.
